Colonel N. A. M. Budley, of the Thirtieth Massachusette, is the ranking colonel in this bricade. The division will be commanded by Brigadier General T. W. Sherman. Several of the regiments named have re-collisted as cavalry, and the order to serve as infantry will disappoint them in some measure. It is understood that the cavalry is to be reduced, at the suggestion of General Canby.

A MOONLIMIT ENCURSION ON THE MESISHIPT.
Two or three evenings since Captain J. M. Robinson.
Quattermaster of Marine Transportation, and Liout Robinson. Assistant Quartermaster of the same bureau, with a party of friends, made a mocolight excursion twenty-live miles up the Mississippi on the steamer Laura, Captain Bell—a small blockade runner that was captured last December, sold as a prize, and purchased for the government. The Laura is now handsomely fitted up as a depatch boat; she is only two hundred and forty tons. The Laura is now handsomely fitted up as a depatch boat; she is only two hundred and forty tons. The Laura was built in New York: her engines are from the establishment of Shaiter & Curtis, of your city. Her first trip was to St. Johns, New Brunswick; from there she proceeded to the Behamas, and thence to Havana, whence she ran tife blockade to a Southern port with an assorted cargo. She returned with cotton. On another trip, from Havana to the Sawance river, the Laura was captured off Cedar Reys by the naval steamers Stars and Stripes and Hendrik Hudson. At the tinz of her capture site had fifty five pounds of steam on; but her port wheel became adrift and was tearing up the paddle hox. Though disabled, she was making greater headway than the Stars and Stripes, and could have eluded her had not the Hendrik Hudson owns to the assistance of the other blockadier unners and released. The Laura is fast for a smail steamor, and has made twenty-one miles in an hour and five minutes. The RECORD OF OCH CAVALEN.

To complete the record of our cavalry in the Red river estapalyn, a more extended notice of their operations on the march from Alexandria to the Mississi when Lucas approached the Avoyeles prairie with his two cavairy brigades be struck the enemy, and, skirmishing sharply, pushed him eight miles through Marksvike, and held the town until the main army camp up, Bunday evening. During Sunday afteracon the whole of the rebel General Major's cavairy line charged on Lucas; but they were gainnity revuland and driven back. Beyond or this side of Marksville the First Louisians cavairy, under Hajor Badger, behaved bandeomely in a splendid charge upon the enemy, who made a stand. Several other dashing charges were made by the Sixth Missouri and other regiments.

The fight rt Morrowville, Russura er Avoyelles prairie, by whichever name it may be known, on Monday, the 16th, gave the cavairy nother opportunity to distinguish themselves. The enemy had twenty-five pleese of artillery in position, and, in addition to their whole covery to the control of the commy. Lucas, with ble own and Krebe' cavairy brigade, was in the front, and did his duty splendidly, while General Arnold, with Davis and Geoding's brigades, protected the trains of the ermy, in conjunction with Lawsier's division of the Thirsenth corp.

After the enemy was again taken up, Colonel Lucas, with his two Marks Adars.

After the enemy was again taken up, Colonel Lucas, with his two brigades, still bold the advance, and General Arnold, with Pavis and Gooding, was guarding the rear and Sanks. Celonel Davis constantly skirmished with the enemy, who, inturally enough, endeavored to harass our rear.

At the last crossing of Rayou de Glatos, on Wednesday the enemy succeeded to alipping two pieces of artiller, and quite a force of cavalry between Pavis and the rea of our infantry column, attacking him at once in th and three or four other officers and thirty or forty men were wounded.

Over hirty of the comming light cavality in forty men were wounded.

Over hirty of the Comming Light cavality in sorting fight cavality, took portions of Companies B and I, numbering fifty-eight men, to hold a side road on the line of our retreat. They were cut off, and have not since been heard from. It is supposed they have been captured, though Colonel Stryker will extricate himself and his command of the thing is possible.

THE ENERTY SHELING PROCESSING.

During the whole of Wednesday the enemy took position frequently with their batteries, and amused themselves by indulging in the agreemble pestime of dropping a shell occasionally into our cavality columns.

While Davin and Gooding were marching towards even ing, with their right fank on a hayou, they were suddenly attacked by the enemy in front and by a finalking first from across the bayou. General Arcaid, commanding the cavality division, had his horse shot under him. The attacks of the enemy were handsomely repulsed.

Near Tellow bayou the cavality restred through Gen Mower's lines, and formed a line of battle to receive the seemy, to whom our artillery attacked to the cavality each instead at one further trequile that evening.

administered a dose so severe that they gave no further trouble that evening.

The duties of the cavalry throughout the entire campaign were very severe, particularly so on the with drawsis of the army from Alexandria to Morganza. They skirmished almost hourly during the march with the enemy, who was menacing our front, threatening our flanks, and hanging on our rear. When the day's march was done prilous of the cavalry, without unsadding, were sent out on tedious and disagreeable picket duty. The result is the horses were nearly exhausted, and the near require a few days recupration before they can enter upon a new campaign.

Governor Brasslette's Suppressed Address.

(From the Frankfort (Ky.) Commonwealth.)

To has Proving or Kentricky.

Frankfor or Kentricky.

Frankfor control of the disturbance of the popular mind, preduced by the enrolment and draft of slaves for the army, it is deemed prudent to make the following suggestions, for the benefit and guidance of the loyal people of Kentacky.

Tour just indignation at the measure should not move you to commit sels of violence, nor to unlawful resistance.

Although the act for the enrolment of slaves is a cold-blooded, calculating act of those whose distoyalty in the beginning of the rebellion was marked by a willingness to viet the Union slide," and to "pays the way of the secoding States with gold," yet their act of treachery to the loyal men of Keulucky should be mot, as you have always not grave issues, as men who have and will ever stand "for the constitution, the Union and the enforcement of the laws." We must quell the efforts of robellion to overthrow the government, by our gallant soldiers in the field, and meet and correct unjust and unconstitutional legislation by legitimate appeals to the constituted tribunah of the any right of the citizen. He need not, unless he obcers, give his essignance or corsent therefor.

When therefore is made to take the slave, your remedy attaches, and your right of action will accord.

When your slave is taken, or entired or persuaded to leave you, or is harbored by effice a and soldiers to prevent you getting him, the couries are open to you for a civil remedy against all who command, outsels, advise, aid, promote or adopt the set. You have your criminal code and process against those who countil any violence to your "neerson or property, against any of the known laws of the land;" and by taking the steps rejuffed by law, have not only the whole power of the commonwealth at your command to enforce your remedies through the civil tribunals of law, but you have the imperative requirements of Congress preserthing regulations for the army—known as the Articles of War—on all officers of the army, to all and sustain you in the porsu't of your rights by legal mode.

The balance of the address lays down the mode of refree which citizens are bound to pursue through the contra, and ends with the following clause.—

Urbold and maintain your government as constituted, and obey and enforce its just demands, as the only hope of perpetuating free institutions.
